1. Chief Presiding Judge's Message

In 2025, King County District Court continued its work to enhance effective communication between court staff and Judges and other branches of government and to evaluate the Court's current processes, with the goal of improving our overall operations.

The Judges, Senior Leadership Team, and Courthouse Managers began the process of communication improvement through the Arbinger Institute – a global leadership development organization. We focused on transforming our individual mindsets to a more outward facing, positive, and effective way of thinking to spur better communication and organizational change.

The Court has also embarked on a LEAN process for many of our internal processes to help eliminate redundancies, improve efficiencies, and utilize our case management system for maximum benefit. The goal is to spend less time processing paperwork and more time with the litigants.

The Court also continues to strengthen our diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) work by continuing our community engagement events and going through all Court processes with a DEI lens. This is an ongoing effort that will continue in 2026 and beyond.

In 2025, the Court experienced continued increases in our civil filings. We had an approximately 20% increase in civil filings from the previous year, and those cases are becoming more complex due to statutory changes. The Court is likely going to need additional resources to handle its civil caseload.

The Court's criminal caseload is nearing its pre-Covid levels, and the cases are becoming more complex. The addition of body-worn cameras for police has meant more attorney and court time is needed to review that footage. Additionally, the increased numbers of public defenders as required by the Washington State Supreme Court means that there is more litigation and thus an increased need for judicial resources.

The Court still struggles to find interpreters for our limited English proficiency (LEP) litigants because of nationwide interpreter shortages and compensation issues. We deeply appreciate the King County Council's additional funding for our interpreter needs, and we are exploring rules changes and Artificial Intelligence (AI) interpretation possibilities for the future.

In addition to our guide on interaction with Federal Law Enforcement, the Court is conducting training for judges and staff on how to interact with Federal Law Enforcement and what to do if there is a civil arrest in the courthouse. This training will be conducted by the Washington Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC).

Two Judges retired from King County District Court in 2025: Judge Gregg Hiramawa and Judge Lisa Paglisotti, both from the West Division. We will miss both experienced judges and wish them well in their retirement.

Bellevue Community Court launched in July 2025! We have had 15 participants opt into the program and 11 graduates as of January 31, 2026. We look forward to helping the people of Bellevue through this evidence-based therapeutic court.

6. Initiatives

King County District Court is committed to continuous improvement in our operations. In 2025, we undertook numerous actions to further enhance our service to the public while making the best use of limited public funding. Key initiatives for the year included:

- Security enhancement projects – To help ensure the safety and security of court users, staff and judges, District Court in 2025 implemented a range of capital improvements via a special one-year $500,000 security funding allocation from King County. Projects included:
 - Vision-obscuring safety window film at all courthouse locations
 - Secured access to judicial chambers from and to the courtrooms at all courthouses
 - New alarm systems at the Burien and Issaquah courthouses
 - Holding cell cameras at the Shoreline and Issaquah courthouses
- Lean process for operational improvements – Building upon a 2024 pilot project, in 2025 District Court judges and staff undertook an extensive review of the Court's infractions body of work to identify ways we can serve the public more efficiently by streamlining the infractions process. In 2026 the Court will continue these lean process improvements for additional court services.
- Call Center service improvements – For calendar year 2025, the District Court Call Center served the public via 207,821 total phone calls, 7,482 emails and 4,510 online live chats. For faster, better service, the Court implemented several actions in the first half of 2025 that dramatically reduced call wait times (from an annual average of 129 minutes per call in 2024 to an annual average of 25 minutes per call in 2025 – an 81% reduction).
- Online evidence management system pilot project – Early in the year, District Court implemented a new web-based tool to make it easier for court users to submit digital evidence. The pilot was for Small Claims cases heard in Seattle. Court users have provided very positive feedback on the new tool.
- Video court simultaneous interpretation – To enhance access to justice for people needing language translation, while also reducing the length of court calendars, District Court implemented simultaneous interpretation on the Zoom videoconference platform in all courtrooms.
- Service counter language translation improvements – District Court deployed Pocketalk handheld language translation devices at all of our courthouse front counters to enable court users and court staff to communicate more effectively.
