

Sammamish Plateau Diversion Project

April 2025

Survey work beginning in your neighborhood in April

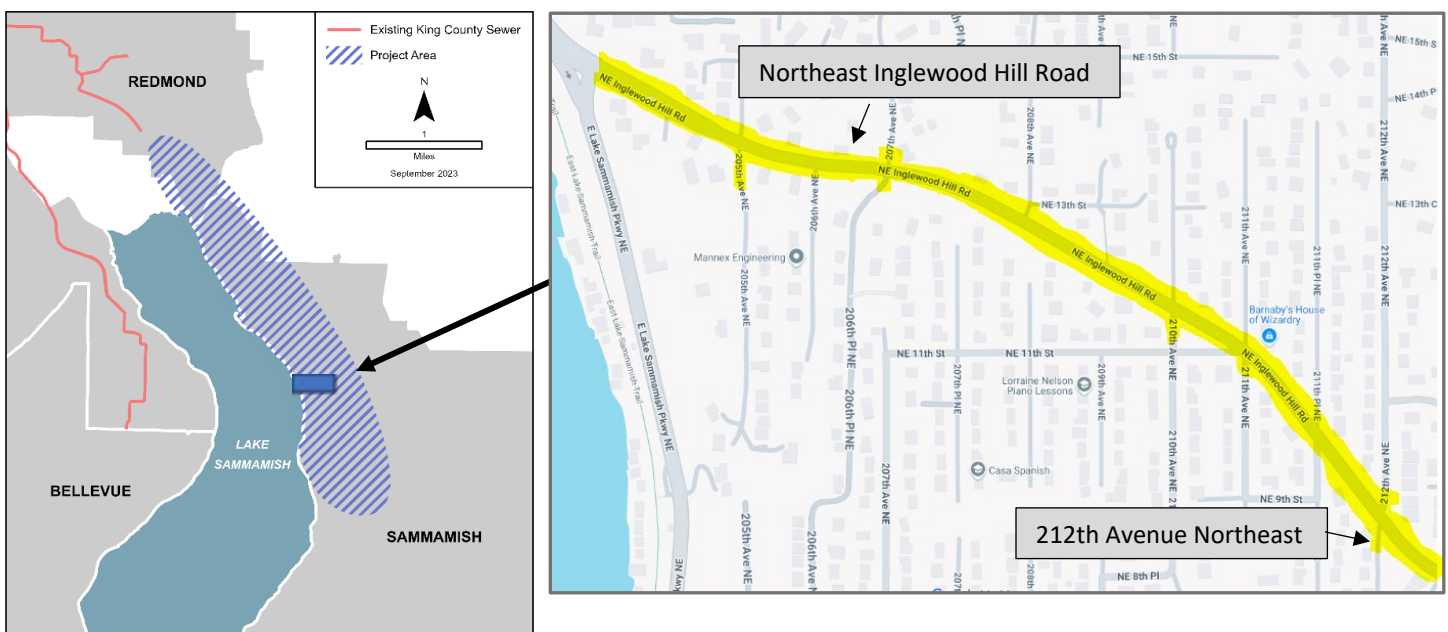

King County Wastewater Treatment Division (WTD) is contacting neighbors of the Sammamish Plateau Diversion Project in the Inglewood Hill area. As part of project research, surveyors will carry out fieldwork in the public right-of-way (ROW) on Northeast Inglewood Hill Road.

The work is scheduled to begin as soon as the week of April 14 and is expected to take up to 5 weeks to complete. During this work, surveyors will be in the public ROW marking utilities with paint and surveying locations. Additionally, crews will be accessing maintenance holes and catch basins in the roadway. We do not anticipate any traffic impacts during this work.

What To Expect

A map of the general work area is located on page two. During this work, you can expect:

- Survey work taking place along the ROW on Northeast Inglewood Hill Road between East Lake Sammamish Parkway and 212th Avenue Northeast.
- Work hours between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m. during the work week (Monday-Friday).
- Work will take place for up to 5 weeks.
- Roads and sidewalks will remain open, and no traffic impacts are expected.

About the Sammamish Plateau Diversion Project

For over 50 years, King County Wastewater Treatment Division (WTD) has protected public health and the environment by collecting and cleaning wastewater for the Puget Sound region. Operating a regional system allows flexibility to adapt our service to meet community needs as our region grows. Now, WTD is working on a program to send more wastewater flows in the future from the growing Eastside to Brightwater Treatment Plant in Woodinville. The Sammamish Plateau Diversion Project will help make that happen.
