Equipment and waste management log

For dental wastewater dischargers

See examples of entries provided by the King County Industrial Waste Program as a resource for dental practices on page 8 of its Dental Wastewater Fact Sheet at www.kingcounty.gov/industrialwaste. Records should be kept three years, including receipts and manifests.

| Date | Event orwaste type | Number oramount andunits | Vendor name | Signature and title of dental practice employee |
|------|------------------------|----------------------------------|-------------|---|
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |
|      |                        |                                  |             |   |

Provided as a resource only. King County is not responsible for accuracy on information contained on this document. King County Industrial Waste Program, 201 S. Jackson St., Ste. 513, Seattle, WA 98104-3855, phone 206-477-5300 or TTY: 711.