SECTION 1 PROJECT SPECIFICATIONS AND SCOPE OF WORK

Program Description:

Hazardous Waste Management Program is a multi-jurisdictional program serving all of King County including the City of Seattle, 37 other cities, two tribes, and unincorporated areas. Our mission is to protect and enhance public health and environmental quality in King County by reducing the threat posed by the production, use, storage, and disposal of hazardous materials. We work with residents and businesses to reduce human and environmental exposure to hazardous materials and products.

Project Background and Community Relevance:

Over the last several years, the Hazardous Waste Management Program has advanced its understanding of and commitment to racial equity. The 2021 Hazardous Waste Management Plan documents the Program's work up to 2021 and 10 years into the future. The Program is working to reduce hazardous exposures to communities that are historically overburdened with health, social, and environmental inequities. The plan refers to these stakeholders as priority communities. Several priority communities are identified in the plan, and they include but are not limited to Black/African American people, Indigenous people, and Latinx people.

Some key concerns from the 10-year plan which are a catalyst for this RFP include:

- Lack of awareness of our Program and that hazardous waste must be disposed of through a separate system from non-hazardous solid waste.
- Inconvenient hours for collection services for people who work, especially for those who work multiple jobs.
- Lack of transportation to collection sites for people without vehicles or who cannot drive.
- Language barriers at collection facilities with English-only instructions

Additionally, this RFP prioritizes solutions to address equity gaps in hazardous waste services. Our equity data revealed repeatedly throughout the report and on several metrics, that more information is needed to better support our priority communities. Gap areas include exposure awareness and vulnerabilities; awareness of hazardous materials and exposure risks at home; awareness of workplace exposure risks; knowledge of collection and disposal; community values, priorities, concerns, and motivators; and community specific data.

Consequently, the equity focus of this RFP and the on-going work of the partnership is to center outreach and engagement through non-profits and CBOs to ensure participation in the primary stages of development and implementation of our equitable inclusion plan. Our informed customers will benefit from Program services by knowing where, when, how, and why reducing their exposure to hazardous products will protect the health and environment of their communities. We will collaborate with funded applicants to become informed by their communities' priorities.

We understand that each community faces different barriers to achieving reduced exposure to hazardous materials in their homes. The Program will support a variety of community approaches, communicate the opportunity for funding and highlight work that may be relevant to interested communities.

The Program's Education Staff:

Our Educator Consultants will support contractors throughout the grant cycle by training community partners, providing technical support and other resources as needed.

Investment Available

The community education grants will distribute $300,000 between 6 to 8 grant recipients on small single year projects that support community organizations who provide services to communities of opportunity, particularly those who may have received disproportionately less program services in recent years.

These grants are available to all underserved communities in King County; populations recognized as such in the 10-Year plan include the African American, Indigenous, and Latinx communities. However, all community organizations who need our services are encouraged to apply.

Grant Purpose:

The purpose of the Program’s community education grants is to develop relationships and partnerships with organizations serving African American, Indigenous, Latinx, and other underserved communities in King County while building on the power of community based, faith based and non-profit organizations by supporting their capacity through education, training, and technical knowledge. Organizations that partner with us through the grant will benefit from training that will equip people resources to educate their communities about residential hazardous materials and the use of safer alternatives and practices.

Hazardous Waste Management Program staff will benefit by learning from community members what preventive strategies and engagement approaches foster a culture of informed decision-making in our collaborative work to protect human health and the environment. Funds will be allocated to successfully reach the priority communities identified in the strategic plan as most impacted by environmental exposures.

Implementation of this RFP will continue the Program’s involvement and commitment to funding community-based education and engagement. It will provide funded access to education and engagement services to communities and organizations with limited opportunities to engage with the Program by:

- 1) Identifying people of color or other marginalized communities, particularly Black (African American), Indigenous and Latinx organizations interested in hosting and promoting hazardous waste events in their communities.
- 2) Supporting organizations who will determine outreach and education strategies that are best for reaching their community.
- 3) Hosting Community Conversations/Information Sessions with invited guests to support educational outreach and grant process, i.e., generate applicants from previously underserved priority communities.

Successful applicants for this RFP will expand the number of communities and organizations that have experience working with the Haz Waste program and provide what is hoped to be an easier way to receive services.

This RFP process will help build relationships and foundational work towards our strategic plan goals for coalitions. This may include building and leading coalitions and partnerships with government, industry, for-profit, non-profit, residential, and small quantity generator (SQG) stakeholders to increase awareness, understanding, support, and action regarding policy initiatives that promote safer alternatives.

Trained hazardous waste collection personnel will collect household hazardous waste items such as cleaners, pesticides, batteries, fluorescent lights, and automotive products. The scope of work will increase the number of individuals who are able to educate others about proper disposal of hazardous products commonly found in the home.

In addition, the County may request additional business and administrative information.
- B. The County may find that a Proposer appears fully qualified to perform the Agreement or it may require additional information or actions from a Proposer. In the event the County determines that the Proposal is not responsive or responsible the County shall eliminate the Proposal from further consideration.

Agreement award, if any, shall be made by the County to the responsible Proposer whose Proposal best meets the requirements of the RFP, and is most advantageous to the County, taking into consideration price and the other established evaluation factors. The County is not required to award an Agreement to the Proposer offering the lowest price. The County shall have no obligations until an Agreement is signed between the Proposer and the County. The County reserves the right to award one or more agreements as it determines to be in its best interest.
