

Getting to Union Station

How to find the Joni Earl Great Hall and the Sound Transit offices.

Location of Sound Transit at Union Station

- * Union Station (401 S. Jackson Street, Seattle, WA) is located within the Chinatown-International and Pioneer Square districts in downtown Seattle and is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Union Station is not to be confused with King Street Station, which has the tall clock tower and serves as the Amtrak Rail Station and Sound Transit's Sounder commuter train station.
- * Entrance: The entrance to the building is on S. Jackson Street near the corner of 2nd Avenue. The entrance to the Ruth Fischer Boardroom is in the northwest corner of the building on the first floor.

Taking transit to Union Station

- * Bus: Bus routes serving Fourth or Fifth avenues at South Jackson Street and serving the International District/Chinatown Station will take you near Sound Transit's Union Station. The 1 Line also serves the International District Station. Leaving the transit tunnel via the north exit, walk west to the Union Station front entrance, located on South Jackson Street between Fourth and Fifth avenues.
- * Rail: The building is directly to the west of the International District Light Rail Station and directly to the southeast of the King Street Sounder Station. As noted in the graphic above, a number of bus lines are also adjacent to the building – use the Plan Your Trip function to find your best transit option.
