Application for Fee Exemption

Current School Impact Fees

School Impact Fee: Amount that would be owed for this project without affordable income housing exemption:	$
---	----

A lien against the property stipulates that these amounts are payable to King County at current rates if at any time the affordable housing requirement is not met.

A. Application for Residential Density Incentive (RDI) – Worksheet

Residential density (or “du”) is the average number of families living on one acre of land.

1. Base density allowed by current zone		du/acre
2. Number of acres or portion of acres in this property		acres
3. Number of units allowed prior to any density bonus (acres/du per acre)		units

A density “bonus” allows you to build more units than usually allowed. You can never go beyond 200% of base density, but having “benefit units” does allow you to increase the residential density of your project. (See King County Codes 21A.34.040-050)

For example, four affordable “benefit” units earning 1.5 bonus units = 6 additional units.

4. Number of affordable “benefit” units:	No. of bonus units
a. Serving non-senior citizens at or below 50% AMI
b. Serving a one or two-person household at or below 50% AMI, in which at least one person is 62 years or older (maximum of 60 low-income units over five acres of site)
c. Senior citizen assisted housing units of 600 square feet or less
d. Ownership units for income-qualified buyers at 80% AMI (no restrictions on resale)

Impact Fees, Application to Exempt or Request Incentives, continued

e. Ownership units for income-qualified buyers at 80% AMI (Resale restricted to income qualified buyers for 15 years)
f. Ownership units for income-qualified buyers at 80% AMI (Resale restricted to income qualified buyers for 30 years)
g. 100% ownership units for income qualified buyers at 80% AMI (Resale restricted to income qualified buyers for 15 years)
h. Mobile home space or pad reserved for mobile home relocated from closed facility in King County
Total number of bonus units earned (add a through h)
Number of units allowed by base density (same as #3 above)
Total number of units allowed on property due to Residential Density Incentives:

Note that the total number of units allowed may not exceed 150% of the base density (or 200%, if 100% of the planned units are affordable according to one of the criteria above).

B. Reduction of Parking Requirement. See KCC 21A.34.080 (D)

Number of required on-site parking spaces per unit prior to affordability reduction (See KCC 21A.34.080 (D):		per unit
Reduction requested to:		per unit
PLEASE TELL WHY THE PARKING SHOULD BE REDUCED.

C. Reduction of Required On-site Recreation Area

For more information about the required onsite recreation area, please see On-Site Recreation for Residential and Mixed-Use Developments, on the Permitting Permit application forms and handouts, by title web page.

Amount of on-site recreation area required prior to affordability reduction:			acres or sq. ft.
Reduction requested to		percent of requirement, resulting in	acres or sq. ft.
PLEASE TELL WHY THE ON-SITE RECREATION AREA SHOULD BE REDUCED.
