

Judd Creek Bridge #3184 Resurfacing Project

King County

Department of Local Services
Road Services Division

Vashon Highway SW between SW 225th Street and SW 227th Street to close for up to six weeks

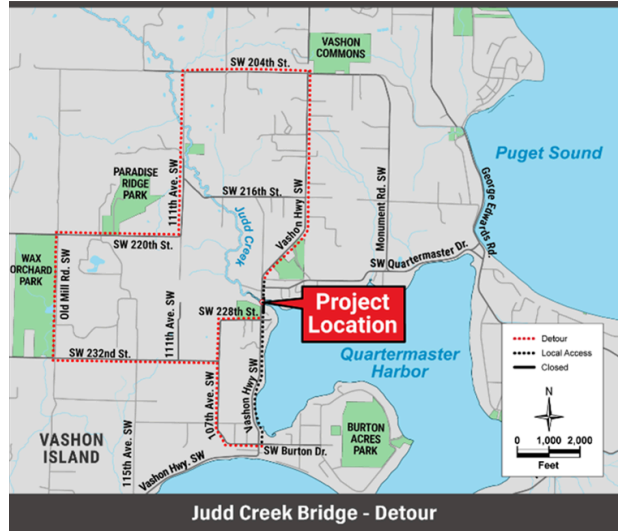

Project overview

As early as this July, contractor crews working for King County will remove the top layer of worn-out concrete on the bridge deck and replace it with new specialized polyester polymer concrete. This work will protect and extend the bridge deck for 30 years or longer.

The work requires a six-week-long road closure on Vashon Highway SW between SW 225th Street and SW 227th Street. The road must be closed because the bridge is too narrow to keep a lane open and maintain a safe work area for the crew.

Judd Creek Bridge is located on Vashon Highway SW between SW Quartermaster Drive and SW 228th Street.

What to expect during construction

Vashon Highway SW at the Judd Creek Bridge will close for up to six weeks to all vehicles during construction.

All traffic, including pedestrians, bicyclists, and emergency services, will use the marked detour route.

The detour route is just over six miles long. Please plan ahead.

Why is King County doing this work?

The existing bridge deck has significant wear and tear and a lot of cracks and potholes. Crews have temporarily closed the bridge many times over the life of the bridge to repair potholes and patch up cracked concrete.

If this work is not completed, the damage will worsen and the bridge structure will deteriorate at a faster rate. This could require a full bridge replacement which may close the bridge for several years.

Overlaying the concrete bridge deck is critical to keeping this vital north-south corridor open, which serves over 4,700 vehicles daily.
